

FOR IMMEDIATE PUBLICATION AND DISTRIBUTION

The new open access Journal Zoonoses joins ScienceOpen's hosting services

Berlin, July 13, 2021

ScienceOpen announces hosting for the new open access journal, Zoonoses. Zoonoses was established in 2021 as a gold open-access, peer-reviewed journal for interdisciplinary research on zoonotic diseases. Zoonoses, published by our partner Compuscript, provides an open platform for rapid publication of the latest findings, approaches, and viewpoints related to medical sciences, veterinary sciences, and public health.

By being hosted on ScienceOpen, Zoonoses will be in the context of over 71 million scholarly records and situated in a branded featured collection. Through promotional and discovery infrastructure, ScienceOpen will help boost readership to and establish the newly launched journal.

Stephanie Dawson, CEO of ScienceOpen, says, "We are pleased to extend ScienceOpen's partnership with Compuscript by providing hosting services for the journal Zoonoses. The interdisciplinary scope of the Journal in addition to its commitment to publishing open access will greatly enrich the ScienceOpen platform."

Morgan Lyons, Managing Director of Compuscript says, "We are delighted that Zoonoses content will be available through ScienceOpen. This will help to make Zoonoses much more accessible and therefore more useful to the academic community and beyond.

Through the ScienceOpen and Compuscript partnership, the companies continue to provide attractive, professional publishing services embedded within an interactive discovery environment to increase readership and engagement of journals.
