ScienceOpen is the new hosting platform for Pluto Journals

Berlin, 15 November, 2021

ScienceOpen has entered a new agreement with Pluto Journals to host their 21 academic journals on the ScienceOpen platform. ScienceOpen will provide open access hosting services and each journal will have access to ScienceOpen's peer review and manuscript submission management systems.

Pluto Journals was launched in 2009, as an independent and international journal publisher in the field of the social sciences. They produce world class journals that are at the cutting edge of humanities research today.

ScienceOpen is a freely accessible research communication platform and aggregator of scholarly content. The platform currently has over 73 million records of scientific articles, books, conference proceedings, posters, and peer reviews. ScienceOpen's technological infrastructure facilitates a powerful, multi-dimensional search, community curation, and researcher networking. ScienceOpen provides space and services to publishers to promote their content - from open access hosting solutions to enriched metadata and promotional packages to custom-tailored publishing environments.

"Pluto Journals is delighted to welcome ScienceOpen as our host to the world of knowledge," says Roger van Zwanenberg, Managing Director, Pluto Journals. "A small independent publisher like Pluto Journals needs a powerful host to reach across to the world's academic libraries and intellectual community. ScienceOpen has the technology and infrastructure that can provide us with the discoverability that is vital in a world crowded with information. Stephanie and her team are a delight to work with and we look forward to a long future together."

The CEO of ScienceOpen, Stephanie Dawson says, "ScienceOpen aims to open up the context around this portfolio of important multidisciplinary journals to provide the best possible discoverability for Pluto Journals. We are confident that our technological infrastructure and know-how will support them in getting the most out of their commitment to open access. I am personally really looking forward to working with the whole team."

Both ScienceOpen and Pluto Journals are very pleased to announce this new partnership and look forward to the launch of the hosted journal collections in the near future.
